By United Press.
Indianapolis, July 11.—The Interstate Public Service Company today completed its traction circuit from Indianapolis to Louisville upon authorization by the Indiana public service commission to purchase the capital stock of the Indianapolis & Louisville Traction Company. The sale price will be $1,176,300. This price includes $330,000 to be paid for common stock and the assumption of $846,300 in outstanding indebtedness. The property to be purchased is the line extending from Seymour to Sellersburg, a distance of forty-one miles. With the conclusion of this transaction the Interstate Public Service Company takes over control of the entire interurban line between Indianapolis and Louisville as it now controls the lines from Indianapolis to Seymour and from Sellersburg to Louisville. The authorized capital stock of the Indianapolis & Louisville Traction Company is $1,200,000 of which there is $591,975 preferred stock and $595,900 common stock outstanding. The preferred stock will be retired.

It has been known here for some time that the Interstate Company was negotiating for the purchase of the Indianapolis & Louisville traction property which was under the control of the Pittsburg Trust Company. It is expected here that the business will continue under the present name and only the management will go to different hands.

MERITS OF SHELTER HOUSE AND BIG TENT CONSIDERED

Directors of Chautauqua Association to Reach Decision at Meeting This Afternoon.

The big Redpath chautauqua tent and equipment which arrived here has not been erected at Shields park, due to an indecision of the directors of the local association regarding the use of the canvas or the shelter house. A special meeting has been called for 5 o'clock this afternoon when the directors will make final decision whether the tent or the pavilion will be used for the assembly which will open next Tuesday.

The Redpath management is very desirous that the big top be used as it believes it affords a better chautauqua spirit and brings the people together under open air conditions which can only be secured in this way.

The season tickets have been placed on sale at Federmann's drug store, the People's grocery, the First National bank and Farmers' Club. The sale of tickets will remain at the reduced price of $2 until the opening date. The chautauqua spirit is much stronger this year than ever before. This is no doubt due to the excellent program which is being brought to the city.

Frances Bullard, who lectures on "Community Health" on the second afternoon, will bring a message of her experiences as a Red Cross nurse in the battle fields of France. She is honored with the Croix de Guerre. Her message is one of interest to every community for she is a believer of a better means of community health which can only be brought through the efforts of the home Red Cross organization. She will make an appeal to the citizens of Seymour.

The Harvester Company which appears on the second day will give costume sketches including many popular and classical instrumental and vocal numbers. Following their program in the evening one of the strongest and ablest men on the platform today, R. E. P. Kline, will lecture on "The New Conception." He brings the strongest and biggest message of the week.

COMMITTEE NAMED ON POST LIGHTING

Chamber of Commerce Takes Active Interest in New Method to Illuminate Streets.

SEVERAL PLANS CONSIDERED

Claude Carter, Chairman, Calls Committee Together to Discuss Best Procedure to Follow.

W. C. Young, president of the Seymour chamber of commerce, today announced the appointment of a special committee to investigate the proposed installation of a post lighting system in the business section of the city and to make recommendations as to the best procedure to follow. Claude Carter is appointed chairman of the committee and the other members are: George Huber, W. L. Federmann, W. L. Clark, J. F. Voss and L. C. Griffiths. Mr. Carter has already called his committee together for a conference relative to the plan and it is expected that a definite report will be ready to submit to the chamber of commerce at its next meeting.

The proposal to install a post lighting system in the central part of the city to take the place of the antiquated are lights which give a shaded, flickering light, has been under consideration for several years. Just before the United States entered the world war the matter had reached the point where the city was ready

ROADS UNDER COUNTY UNIT LAW MAY SUFFER DELAY

State Tax Board Will Postpone Action Until State Highway Commission Acts.

The state board of tax commissioners has announced that it will not look with favor upon any petitions for the construction of highways under the county unit law until the state highway commission has definitely determined the system that it will take over. A petition asking for the improvement with brick of the Medora-Sparksville road has been pending before the Jackson county commissioners several months but was continued at the last meeting. The petition asks that the road be built under the county unit law.

The tentative state highway system has been announced, but the tax board fears that there may be changes in the system. This announcement is in line with the recent statement of the board that no more petitions for improvements would be considered this year for work that is to be done next year.

Before a highway can be constructed under the county unit law, a petition must be filed with the tax board for permission to make the necessary assessment and under certain conditions an election in the county is ordered.

BRITISH DIRIGIBLE ABOUT ONE HALF WAY HOME

Speeding Along at Sixty Miles an Hour, Commander States in Wireless.

By United Press.
New York, July 11.—Bowling along at sixty knots an hour, the British dirigible R-34 was believed to be more than half way across the Atlantic on her return voyage to Scotland early today.

The latest report received by the naval radio station here showed the airship more than 1,000 miles out from her starting point, Mineola, L. I. at 11 p. m. Greenwich time (7 p. m. New York time). Her position at that hour was given as 42.16 north latitude and 52.40 west longitude. "Speeding at sixty knots for Blighty," she wirelessed, "All well."

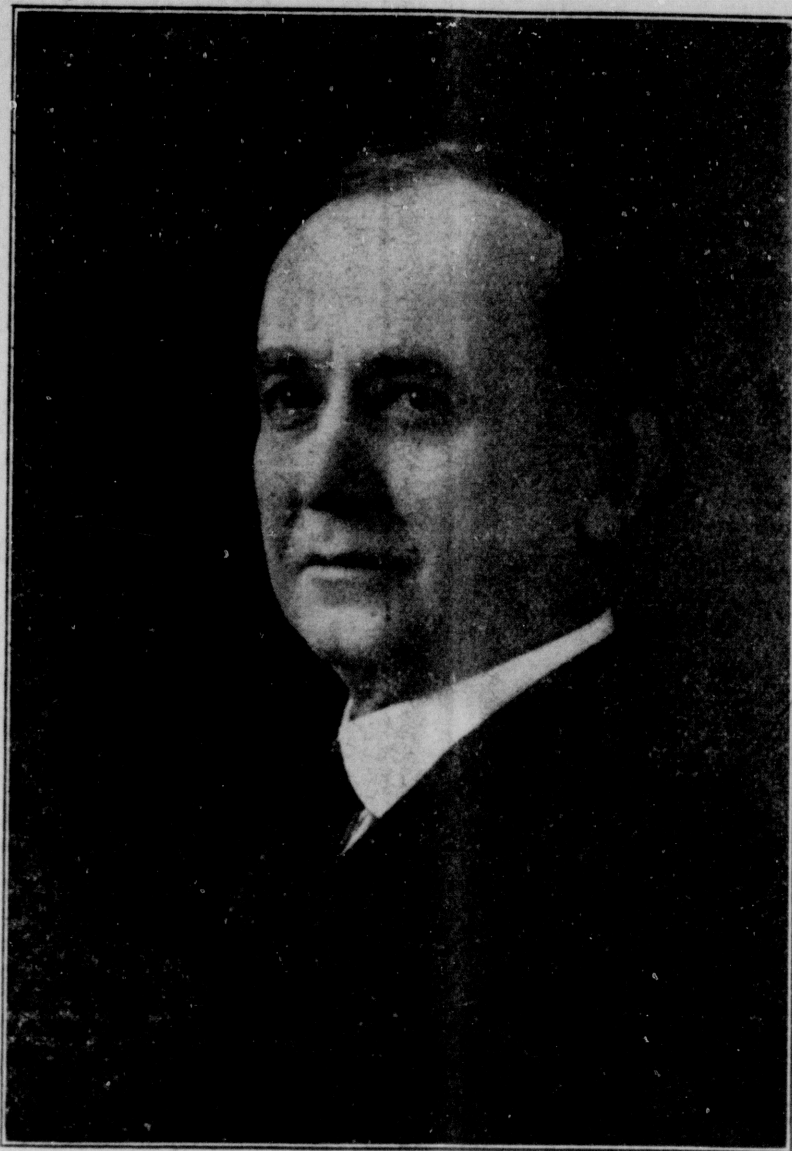

Her fuel supply was about one half exhausted, the wireless stated.

JUDGE OSCAR H. MONTGOMERY, of Seymour.

LOCAL MAN HEADS BAR ASSOCIATION

Judge O. H. Montgomery Unanimously Elected President of Organization of Attorneys.

VICE-PRESIDENT LAST YEAR

Other Officers Named at Closing Session of Annual Meeting at Indianapolis Thursday.

Judge Oscar H. Montgomery, of this city, a former member of the Indiana supreme court, was unanimously elected president of the Indiana Bar Association at the closing session of the annual meeting at Indianapolis Thursday afternoon. The office is recognized as one of signal honor among the attorneys of the state. Judge Montgomery served as vice-president of the organization last year.

The closing session of the annual meeting was called to order by Judge Montgomery and he served as the presiding officer. Elmer E. Stevenson, of Indianapolis, was chosen secretary, and Elias D. Salsbury, of Indianapolis, was selected as treasurer. The secretary and treasurer served in the same capacities last year. The executive committee for the coming year consists of George A. Dix, of Terre Haute, Edgar M. Blessing, of Danville, and Allison E. Staunt, of Lafayette. The executive committee with the other officers elected will constitute the board of managers.

James M. Ogden, of Indianapolis, moved that the new president appoint a committee to promote the membership of the organization and to rejuvenate county bar associations. The incoming president will appoint three delegates to attend the annual meeting of the American Bar Association to be held in New York in September.

The principal address of the annual meeting was made by Judge Benjamin Bledsoe, of Los Angeles.

CONSUMERS URGED TO BUY COAL NOW

Local Dealers Call Attention to Possible Famine That Might Exist Next Winter.

DEALERS NOT ALARMISTS

Government Figures Given As Basis For Predicted Shortage—Combination of Causes.

Seymour coal dealers are calling attention to a threatened coal famine next winter unless more coal buying is done this summer, citing government figures to show the reason for this contention. There will be no advantage in waiting to lay in the winter supplies of fuel as it is pointed out that there is no possible chance for coal to get any cheaper than at present.

Dealers estimate that not more than one-half of the people who last year at this time had in their winter's supply of coal in the bins have followed the precautions this summer. The dealers do not want to be classed as alarmists and take the government figures for their argument that a coal shortage will come unless production is stimulated at this time.

According to government reports the coal production has fallen off to an alarming extent due to a combination of causes. It is pointed

LARGE CAT FISH HOOKED BY MEDORA FISHERMAN

Weighed Sixty-four and a Half Pounds on Local Scales—Caught by James Smallwood.

The biggest fish displayed in this city for several years was brought here by James Smallwood this morning and sold to the Phillips Fish Stand. The fish weighed 64½ pounds on local scales.

The large cat fish was caught by Smallwood in White river at the Devil's Elbow near Medora, Thursday night. Mr. Smallwood has caught a number of big fish this season but the one brought here this morning is his biggest catch. Local fishermen estimate that the large fish weighed about 70 pounds when first caught as it is pointed out that fish lose considerable weight while tied in the water and being handled.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Darling and daughter, Janet, of Cincinnati, visited here a short time today enroute to Crothersville. Mr. Darling will return to Cincinnati this evening.

BOARD OF REVIEW CLOSES SESSION

Local Work Relative to Tax Appraisements in Jackson County Has Been Concluded.

TABULATION OF THE TOTAL

County Assessor and Auditor Have Great Volume of Work Before Them Completing Records.

The sixty-day session of the county board of review was completed this afternoon. Taxpayers who were not satisfied with the appraisements fixed by the local assessors had opportunity to appeal to the board of review and if the differences were not adjusted to their complete satisfaction they could take an appeal to the state board of tax commissioners. It is understood, however, that one appeal to the state board was taken from this county. August 15 is the date that has been set by the state board for hearing complaints from this county.

The board devoted its attention today to certain appraisements in the town of Brownstown. Some changes in sections of the town were ordered. All property on Spring street was increased fifty percent, by the board. Under the new tax law, the county board of review has authority to increase or lower the appraisements on any street, civil or town corporation or township, but it cannot raise the appraisement of any single piece of property without first giving the owner at least three days' notice.

The board found that its work under the new tax law is considerably heavier than under the old law. The details this year were especially numerous because this is the first time that the law has been placed in operation and the change was from an old system to a new method. The board, however, feels that its work has been as satisfactory to the public as possible under the existing conditions. The members have first of all endeavored to place all property on the same basis of equality and to do this some townships have been raised while others have had their appraisements lowered.

Salt Creek township asked for a new assessment and the work was completed and accepted by the board Thursday. The new appraisement is about sixty-five percent, higher on all real estate and improvements than the former assessment. Although the county commissioners have divided Salt Creek township forming Pershing township out of the western sections, the assessment work was done in the name of Salt Creek township and the local board took no recognition of the new township.

TRADE RELATIONS WITH GERMANY TO BE RESUMED

Formal Announcement to World is Expected Soon, Acting Secretary of State Says.

By United Press.
Washington, July 11.—Trade relations with Germany will be resumed at once, Acting Secretary of State Polk announced today. Formal announcement will be made to the world within forty-eight hours, Polk said.

The state department will issue blanket licenses for trade with Germany in everything but dyes, potash and chemicals. The restrictions on these German products will not be listed as yet.

Though trade and communication will be permitted, Secretary Polk emphasized that the United States is still at war with Germany and will be until this country ratifies the peace treaty. The trading with the enemy act is still in force, but the blanket licenses will permit trade and communication under it.

Full resumption of German trade cannot be realized before mid-winter, it was said at the shipping board.

SIX WORDS FORM BASIS OF FIGHT

Senators Opposing League of Nations Point To One Phrase of President's Address.

AUTHORITY OF LEAGUE

"At Whatever Cost of Independent Action," is Sentence That Draws Fire of Conflict.

By United Press.
Washington, July 11.—Senators opposing the league of nations today seized on six words from President Wilson's speech to the senate as truth of their contention that ratification of the league will rob the United States of its independence of action.

The six words are: "At whatever cost of independent action."

President Wilson used them in declaring that the world demanded a new order of international politics founded on freedom and justice. He then added that it was in the league of nations that mankind found its only hope of this new order. Thus the President, anti-leaguers argued today, demanded that the United States commits itself to give up its independence to whatever extent the league deems necessary.

"This statement taken with the President's assertion that United States is legally bound to accept the advice of the league's council proves absolutely what the proponents of the league have denied," said Senator Borah.

"They have insisted that we would be under no legal obligation to act on the league's advice unless we felt honor compelled to. But the President clearly views the situation differently."

Opposition senators were actively preparing today to carry the fight on Wilson from a new angle. While they have previously centered the opposition on article 10 of the covenant they are now preparing to make the Shantung question the first test of strength.

President Wilson's expression of willingness to appear before the senate foreign relations committee at any time to be questioned concerning the treaty and league was pointed to by those favoring the ratification as evidence of his confidence that the documents cannot be successfully attacked. The president, it was said, is quite ready to discuss the provisions with his opponents whenever they are ready to meet him.

Administration senators said they were sure that after much verbal battling on the floor the treaty and league would win when it came to a vote. They considered the president, in his speech of yesterday, withheld most of his strong arguments for use later in the campaign after the opposition has revealed its own line of assault.

QUESTION ARISES AS TO VOTE OF RATIFICATION

Some Believe Majority Vote is Sufficient for Final Action on League of Nations.

By United Press

Washington, July 11.—President Wilson and senate legal experts were at odds today over the question whether a majority or two thirds vote is required to adopt reservations to the peace treaty.

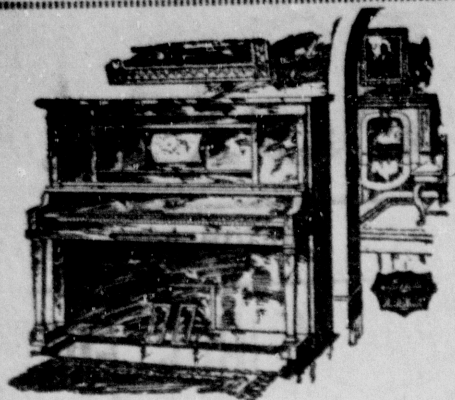

Wilson is known to believe that any reservation intended to be a permanent part of the treaty must get a two thirds vote.

Many rules experts disagree.

The rule itself says two thirds for ratification and for "all other motions a majority."

to enter into a contract for the installation of the posts but the work was postponed on account of the war industries board order.

It has long been recognized that the present system of lighting the business district is not only inadequate but is too expensive for the character of light that is furnished. The arc lamps are expensive to operate and it is reported that the cost of the current for the arc lamps along exceeds $1,000 each year. The special committee expects to prepare a report showing in detail what the system now costs and what the proposed post lighting system will cost for maintenance.

When the matter was under consideration three years ago, Nathan Kaufman was chairman of a committee that devoted much time to the question and procured a large amount of valuable information which has been turned over to Mr. Carter's committee. Merchants will recall that a petition was circulated asking that the system be installed and practically every business man and merchant in the city affixed his signature to the paper.

Mr. Carter's committee has obtained prints and pictures of various kinds of ornamental posts which would be suitable for installation in this city. It is the desire of the committee to select a type of post that will be serviceable as well as ornamental for the streets and one that will stand the weather for years to come. Several merchants have already installed individual posts in front of their stores, but if the system is to be made uniform these would have to be replaced. It is suggested that the posts now in use could be used to splendid advantage in Shields park where no systematic lighting system has been inaugurated.

Mr. Carter's committee expects to make decision as to the vital question in regard to the new system within a short time so that a full report can be filed at the next meeting of the chamber of commerce.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

BAPTISM

Matt. 28:18-20; Acts. 8:34-40

GOLDEN TEXT.—For as many of you as have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ.—Gal. 3:27.

ADDITIONAL MATERIAL.—Matt. 3:13-17; Acts 2:37, 38; 19:1-7; Col. 2:12; 1 Peter 3:18-21.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Christ Baptized by John.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Baptism of Jesus Christ.

INTERMEDIATE TOPIC—The Pledge of Christian Discipleship.

SENIOR AND ADULT TOPIC—Significance and Importance of Christian Baptism.

I. The Apostles' Commission (Matt. 28:18-20).

1. The authority of Jesus. (v. 18). God gave him all authority in heaven and on earth. As mediator and coming king he possessed all authority. This authority extends over all the material world, angels, wicked men, devils, and his own people. God highly exalted him and gave him a name which is above every name (Phil. 2:9). There is no other way of salvation, for the entire matter of redemption is in his hands (Acts 4:12). Since God has so highly honored him it is extreme folly to expect to be saved while disregarding him.

2. The obligation of the apostles (vv. 19-20).

(1) It was to teach, that is, make disciples of all the nations (v. 19). They were to make known to the whole world that Christ had died to save sinners and that God had committed to Jesus the redemption of the world. Those who are Christ's disciples are bound to proclaim him to others.

(2) Baptize those who believe (v. 19). This is the divinely appointed way of making a public confession of faith in Christ. The disciples must publicly take a stand for Christ. The application of water symbolizes the purifying effect of the blood of Christ and solemnly dedicates to the service of God. This baptism must be in the name of the Father, Son and Holy Ghost, showing that the believer has been brought into definite relationship to each member of the Holy Trinity.

(3) Teach the disciples obedience (v. 20). Profession is not enough, it must issue in obedience. Faith must result in works. To call Jesus "Lord" and do not the things which he says profits nothing.

3. The all-sufficient promise (v. 20).

The Lord had told the disciples what would happen to them after he had gone away. He made it plain that perils of all kinds awaited them. Though the difficulties were great nothing mattered so long as they had the presence and fellowship of the all-powerful Savior and Lord.

II. The Baptism of the Eunuch (Acts 8:34-40).

1. Philip preached Jesus Christ to him (v. 35). At the invitation of the eunuch Philip joined himself to the chariot and found the eunuch reading from the fifty-third chapter of Isaiah. Beginning with this Scripture he preached Christ. He did not preach Christ as a great teacher, but as a savior who had suffered and died instead of the sinner. He preached him as one who had offered himself as a ransom for many. The fact that the eunuch, a great statesman, needed an interpreter of the Scriptures, even such a plain passage as the fifty-third chapter of Isaiah, shows the absolute need of a preacher. The printed page is valuable, but there will always be the need of a preacher. The gospel needs to be experienced before one can be a witness of its saving power.

2. The eunuch requesting baptism (v. 36).

When Christ is truly preached men naturally desire to confess him in baptism. In many quarters baptism has been unduly emphasized, but in others it has been disregarded. It is highly important that an intelligent understanding of its meaning be possessed; for that of which Jesus Christ gave an example and a command is highly important.

3. Philip baptizing the eunuch (v. 38). Having secured from the eunuch the proper confession Philip baptized him. It is faith in Christ that saves, but those who have genuine faith desire to seal it in baptism.

4. The eunuch rejoicing (v. 39). Confession of Christ brings joy. Those who obey the commandments of the Lord can go on their way rejoicing.

SOCIAL EVENTS

FRANKLIN COLLEGE QUARTET.
The entertainment at the First Baptist church Thursday evening by the Franklin College Quartet was thoroughly enjoyed by the audience, especially if one may judge from the hearty encores. Every number on the program was encoored and several for more than one repeat. From the very first the audience caught the enthusiastic spirit with which the quartet did their work. The vocal numbers, the readings and the violin solos by Mr. Hunter were well rendered without exception. The program offered a constant variety that permitted no relaxing of interest. Reginald Brinklow, director of the Seymour Band assisted exceptionally well with accompaniments for the violin. The young men in the quartet are Royce Kinick, A. E. Davis, Roy D. Hunter and H. T. Thurston.

SURPRISE.

Mrs. Byford Cunningham, who teaches the Who Do class of the Park Mission Sunday School, was given a delightful surprise Thursday evening by the members of the class. Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham were invited to ride with Merrill Harsh, a member of the class, who took them to Rapp's Grove, Rockford, where the other members of the class had assembled. The affair was a complete surprise to Mrs. Cunningham. A picnic supper was served, followed by games. Later in the evening the party motored to Cortland.

Those who attended were Misses Clara Williams, Stella, Edna and Gladys Gossett, Alice Morrison, Alice and Irene Monroe, Eloise Lee and Miss Helen Tuell, of Brownstown, Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham, Merrill Harsh, Lawson Williams, Earl Dieck, Fred Nuss, Frank Miller, Raymond Scharfenberger, Grover Marquette and Tip Richardson.

ENTERTAINED

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Heckmann entertained at their home southeast of city Sunday for Mrs. Heckmann's brother Lieutenant Elmer Reveal who received his honorable discharge. He was a member of the 313th Brigade stationed at Shelby Hattiesburg Miss.

The guests were Mrs. Mollie Wright, Kenneth Kiefer, of Chicago, Ill. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Reveal and PICNIC.

About two hundred citizens of Brownstown will attend a community picnic this evening on White River, near the iron bridge. A basket supper will be served and the remainder of the evening spent with swimming and games.

Miss Irene Heideman will entertain the members of the French Circle this evening at her home on South Walnut street.

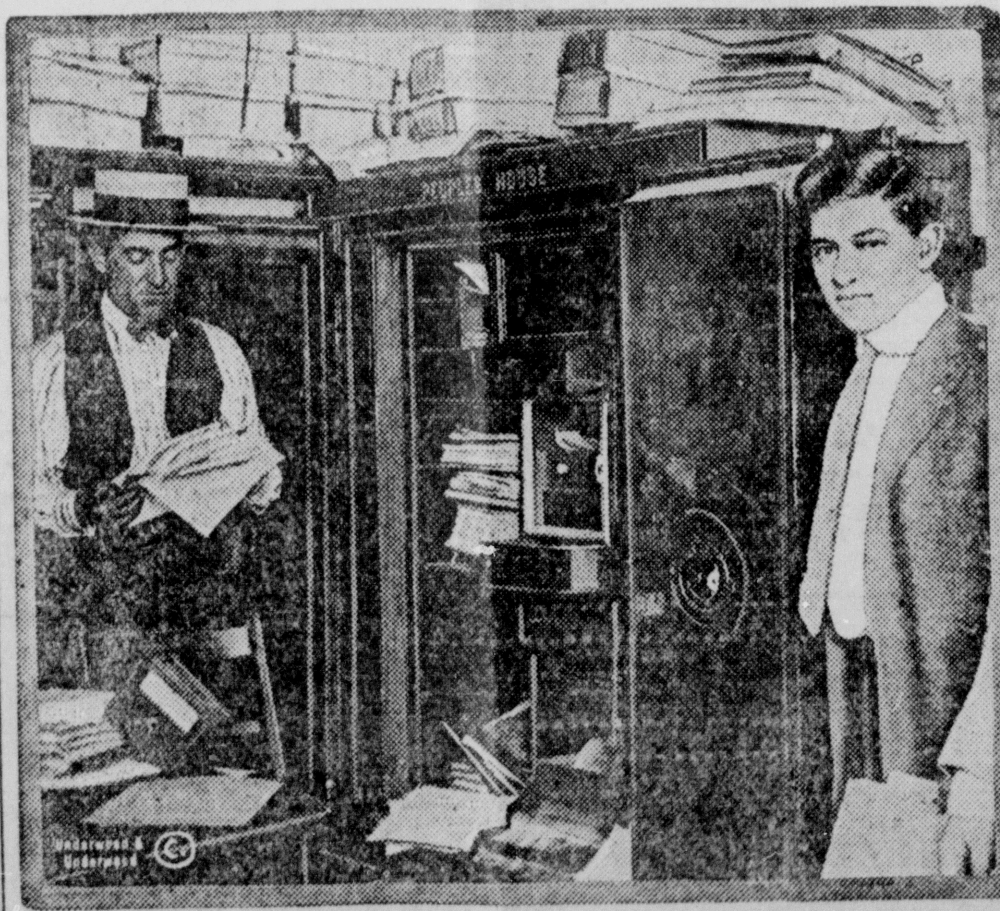

CROTHERSVILLE FACTION OPPOSED TO IMPROVEMENTS

Residents Are Planning to File Injunction Proceedings to Stop Contractors.

It was reported here this afternoon that steps are being taken to enjoin the town board of Crothersville and the contractors who were awarded the contract for putting in a water works plant and building a paved street, from proceeding with their work.

It was stated by a Crothersville resident this afternoon that while the majority of the Crothersville taxpayers are in favor of the improvements, a large number are opposed to it and have employed the assistance of a local attorney to assist with the injunction proceedings. Providing an injunction is filed it will be necessary for the case to be heard by some judge of an adjoining county, because Judge James A. Cox

"I Simply Feel Fine, Since Taking Trutona," Cox Enthusiastically Declares.

MANY TROUBLES BANISHED

Local Resident Says Perfect Tonic Brought Relief After Other Medicines Failed.

Statements of local people—residents of your own home town whom you have known for years—are the best evidence in the world that can be offered in behalf of a medicine or anything else. Because of its remarkable merits, Trutona is daily winning friends in Seymour, many of whom are coming out with public praise for the perfect tonic. Ernest G. Cox, 416 Carter street, an employe of the Seymour Furniture Manufacturing Co., in describing his experience with Trutona, says:

"For more than a year I have suffered from liver and kidney trouble and indigestion has bothered me for the past four months. Severe pains in my back and sides prevented me from sleeping soundly at night, causing me to waken often. It seemed that I couldn't eat much of anything without having to suffer severe pains in my stomach. I felt tired and draggy all the time and just had to force myself to work.

"Well sir, the first meal I've actually enjoyed in the past four months I ate last Sunday. And it's also the first time in that period that I haven't suffered from the after effects of eating. The pains in my sides and back have entirely disappeared and I sleep soundly the whole night through now. I'd tried a good many medicines, but it wasn't until I'd taken Trutona that I got the relief I needed. I simply feel fine now."

This frank, sincere statement coming from a local resident, cannot help but convince even the most skeptical of Trutona's remarkable merits. As a combatant of stomach, bowel and liver troubles, the perfect tonic is without a peer as well as being a splendid reconstructive agency, system purifier and body invigorant.

Trutona is now being introduced and explained in Seymour at W. L. Federman's Drug Store. j8&11 is a taxpayer and resident of the town of Crothersville as are also his mother and a sister.

The main point for opposition to the improvements by Crothersville residents is said to be due to the fact that the tax rate in the town will be increased. There is some question as to whether the town can be enjoined from completing the work. Preliminary work on the improvements has been started by the contractors.

EMULATION COUNTS IN LIFE

Woman Evangelist Was Evidently Aware of the Fact, and Turned It to Advantage.

In an Indiana city, not long ago, a woman evangelist held a revival meeting. She took no collections while the services were in progress, but on the final night she announced that a free-will offering would be in order. Interest in the meetings had been growing and the church was crowded to capacity. The ushers, with contribution plates, started on their rounds. The evangelist said she had instructed them to say "Amen" whenever 25 cents was dropped into the plate; when 50 cents the usher was to say "Hallelujah!" and when $1 the usher was to say "Glory hallelujah!" in a loud tone. The collection amounted to $1,100.

If there had been no emulation the total might have been small, but the evangelist knew that no person with money to give would be content with an "Amen" when a neighbor, sitting in the next pew, was acclaimed with a "Glory hallelujah!" The same principle holds good in everyday life. If one man has a fine vegetable garden it is an incentive to his neighbors. The interest women have in pretty frocks is largely due to somebody getting one and making the others desire something equally becoming. Men would care little for position if it were not for the age-old lure that makes them want a better job than the other fellow.

Without such emulation there would be nothing to drag men and women away from the commonplace things of life. There would be nothing to induce one boy to seek for the head of his class or persuade him that he should run for president later on. Many, of course, are content to have "Amen" said to their efforts in life, but more want to hear the "Glory hallelujah!"—Indianapolis News.

Twice before Bohumir Kryl has made a tour with his band of the big Seven Day Redpath Chautauqua circuit. Both tours were so wonderfully successful that ever since there have been repeated requests for Mr. Kryl and his band again to go over the circuit. This year, for the third time, the Redpath Chautauqua announces the engagement of Mr. Kryl and his band. Inasmuch as so many Chautauqua patrons know the high quality of music to be expected from the Kryl band there is no question but what Band Day will be one of the big days of Chautauqua week. The band which is to make this tour is composed of from 30 to 35 of Mr. Kryl's best players. Mr. Kryl and his band will appear afternoon and night of the fifth day.

PESKY BED BUGS

A MILLION BEDBUGS. Just think, a package of the new golden chemical P.D.Q. (Pest Destroying Quinine) is enough to make a quart and enough to kill a million bedbugs, no matter how large they may be or where they come from, their age, color or sex, and at the same time leaves a coating on their eggs and prevents hatching.

CUT THIS OUT. This new chemical can be had at any first-class drug store. A 35c package makes a quart of P.D.Q., and will go farther than a barrel of old-fashioned bug killer. Don't let anybody impose upon your intelligence by offering you something else. Insist on what you ask for, then you'll have what doctors prescribe.

KILLS FLEAS ON DOGS. It's fun to see the fleas drop off your pet dog.

KILLS CHICKEN LICE. No use for your chickens to have lice. A 35c package mixed makes a gallon of chicken lice killer.

Your druggist has it, or can get it for you.

HERE LOOKING FOR RECRUITS FOR THE ARMY

Capt. H. P. Butts, of Camp Taylor, Wants Men for Remount Service—Splendid Opportunities.

Capt. H. P. Butts, camp surgeon at Camp Taylor, was in the city this morning in the interest of recruiting young men for the remount service. Capt. Butt, who formerly resided at Rothersville, where he practiced his profession, has been in the service for six years.

The army officer is looking for young men who are acquainted with horses and know how to take care of them for the quartermaster department. Men capable of handling four horse teams and a few men for clerical work are wanted.

Capt. Butts spent Thursday at North Vernon where he secured a number of recruits. The captain is doing the recruiting at his own expense as he is anxious to fill his outfit with capable men to take the places of the men who will be discharged by September 1. It is desired that young men interested enlist within the next month so that they can become acquainted with the work before the men doing the work at present are discharged. Persons interested are requested to address Capt. H. P. Butts, Auxiliary Remount, Depot 319, Louisville, Ky.

University President Will Speak.

Dr. J. E. L. Moore, president of Olivet University, Olivet, Ill., will speak at the Nazarene church of this city Saturday evening, Sunday morning and evening. Dr. Moore is a great preacher and educator and all are invited to hear him.

Rev. T. C. Smith went to Indianapolis this morning on business.

RUSSIAN SOVIETS LEARNING TO READ

Bolsheviks Want People to Know How to Read What is Written About New Order.

SCHOOLS ARE ESTABLISHED

Two Thirds Communism and Socialism and One-third Education is Taught.

New York, July 11—More people in Soviet Russia are learning to read than are learning to write. The bolsheviks want people to know how to read in order to facilitate the spread of the "communist gospel." A widespread definite system of education is being put into effect, not only for youngsters, but also for the elders.

The bolsheviks have established schools that are a wide departure from anything known in Russia heretofore. Many features are not radically different from elementary American schools, which the Russians are copying.

The first feature to go by the board in Russia was religion. Schools were formerly conducted by priests and the curriculum was two thirds religion and one-third education. This order is reversed now. The bolsheviks are teaching two-thirds socialism and communism and one-third education, the latter being mostly reading and writing. Since many of the children in the cities were starving, the bolshevik government in Moscow and Petrograd is serving a noon meal to the children in school. In many schools clothes are being issued to children whose parents cannot supply them.

The education program, considered by bolshevik leaders to be far in advance of anything in vogue today, practically takes the raising and educating of children out of the hands of the family and places children in the charge of the state.

The Russian code of labor requires that everyone work, women as well as men, except that women have eight weeks before and eight weeks after the birth of a child during which they may stay at home.

At all other times, the mother must leave her babes at public nurseries, where the state will take charge of them and educate them. Already some of the nurseries have been established, and the bolshevik government anticipates bringing up the next generation according to certain "proper" theories.

The bolsheviks are working out their educational system in the cities, and thus far have done nothing for the children of the country. They plan to extend their system to the rural districts later. The peasants have been slower to accept the benevolences of paternal bolsheviks.

In developing their education system the bolsheviks face a tremendous problem, due to the enormous percentage of illiteracy in Russia. Systems of adult night schools have been started in the cities for the grown-ups who do not know how to read and write, or who want to take up special studies. The universities have been opened to everyone, free of charge, and for the most part are attended by older people. The normal student body is mobilized at the front.

Lectures and meetings are the most popular form of education at present. There are meetings by the thousands everywhere. In Soviet Russia there is little else to do but go to a meeting in the evening, aside from a limited number of theaters.

Cafes, to which the Russians used to flock, are closed by order of the soviet government. Restaurants and all other gathering places likewise are no more. In place of these European institutions the bolsheviks offer specially arranged meetings, at which are served lectures on socialism, communism and world-revolution.

The state has on its pay-rolls a staff of speakers, many of whom were formerly street agitators in America and England, who are engaged as educators of the people. To attract people to these meetings the most noted singers, musicians and dancers give performances after the lectures. The press and the theater is used to spread bolshevik education. Public places and clubs have been confiscated for the meeting places. In Moscow the nobles' club has been turned into a labor temple, and is the principal meeting place. The public has opportunity to attend the treaters and opera on a partly communistic and partly capitalistic basis. All theaters are confiscated by the state, and their former owners are gone. For the most part the stage stars remain the same, monthly bonuses up to three thousand rubles per month being paid them to encourage them to continue their roles.

The opera and ballet in Moscow is as well staged as ever, and is beautiful beyond comparison with war time presentations in other capitals of Europe. The audience is the most interesting development. Amongst splendidly dressed people and beautiful women, obviously of the former bourgeoisie classes, people who have been able to make their money last through the revolution, one sees unwashed, unshaved, rough workmen, dressed in dirty work clothes. They are recipients of tickets distributed free of charge by the government among factory workers and government employees. These sit without removing their caps, apparently enjoying the theater for the first time in their lives.

Ordinary people must buy tickets—only the privileged workman or government employee is a guest—at the box or from scalpers, the same as in capitalistic lands.

out that coal cannot be produced and held in large quantities awaiting the convenience of buyers, since it must be moved from the mines at fast as produced and kept moving until it finally reaches the consumer.

It is estimated that the government's requirements of coal this year will be 530,000,000 tons, or 55 million less than last year. Of this huge amount only 195,000,000 tons has been produced up until June 14, leaving a balance of 305,000,000 tons to be produced in twenty-eight weeks. The average tonnage which must be produced in that length of time each week will be 10,900,000 tons. Local dealers are inclined to believe that this will be impossible unless the consumers start laying in their winter's supply of coal at once. These figures are from the geological survey and are considered accurate.

Another factor entering into the production, it is said, is that thousands of miners are returning to Europe making a shortage of labor for the mines here. Seymour people well remember the winter of 1917-1918 when the coal famine forced a shut down in factories and forced hardships in private homes. It is predicted that a repetition of this is possible and for that reason local dealers are urging consumers to lay in their coal supply now.

BIG FIVE MEAT PACKERS EXERCISE GREAT CONTROL

Federal Trade Commission Says Market of Country Threatened by Action of Quintet.

By United Press

Washington, July 10—The "big five" meat packers will soon exercise a powerful domination over the nation's food supply at international control of meat products unless congress makes immediate steps to forestall these aims, the federal trade commission today reported to President Wilson.

"A fair consideration of the course the five packers, Armour, Morris, Swift, Wilson and Cudahy, has followed and the position they have already reached much leave to the conclusion that they threaten the freedom of the markets of the country's food industry and of the by-products industry, linked therewith," says the report which is part one of the commission's investigation of the meat industry.

CHAPTER I.
In Which We Gather Shells—and Other Matters.

With Charlie gone and duck-shooting not being one of my passions, there was nothing to detain me in Andros. So we were soon under way, out of the river, and heading north up the western shore of the big monotonous island. We had some fifty miles to make before we reached its northern extremity—and, all the way, we seldom had more than two fathoms of water, and the coast was the same interminable line of mangroves and thatch palms, with occasional clumps of pine trees, and here and there the mouth of a creek, leading into duck-haunted swamps.

At last we came to a little foam-fringed cove, where it was conceivable that the shyest and rarest shell would choose to make its home—a tiny aristocrat, driven out by the broad tides by the coarser ambitions and the ruder strength of great molluscs that feed and grow fat and house themselves in crude convolutions of uncouthly striving horn.

It was impossible to imagine a cove better answering to my conchologist's description of Short Shrift island. Its situation and general character, too, bore out the surmise. On landing, also, we found that it answered in two important particulars to Tobias's narrative. We found, as he had declared, that there was good water there for passing ships. Also, we found, in addition to the usual scrub, that cabbage-wood trees grew there very plentifully, particularly, as he said, on the highest part of the island. So, having talked it all over with Tom, I decided that here we would stay for a time and try our luck.

But, first, having heard from the sponging captain that he was en route for Nassau, I gave him a letter to Charlie Webster, telling him of our whereabouts, in case he should have sudden need of me with regard to Tobias.

The reader may recall that Tobias's narrative in reference to his second "pod" of one million dollars had run: "On the highest point of this Short Shrift island is a large cabbage-wood stump, and twenty feet south of that stump is the treasure, buried five feet deep and can be found without difficulty." But which was the highest point? There were several hillocks that might claim to be that—all about equal in height.

However, as the high points of the island were only seven in all, it was no difficult matter to try them all out, one by one, as we had plenty of time and plenty of hands for the work. For, of course, it would have been idle to attempt any concealment of my object from the crew. Therefore, I took them from their shell-gathering and, having duly measured out twenty feet south from each promising cabbage-wood stump, set them to work. They worked with a will, for I promised them a generous share of whatever we found.

Alas! it was an inexpensive promise, for, when we had duly turned up the ground, not only twenty feet, but thirty, forty and fifty feet, not only south but north, east and west of the various cabbage-wood stumps on the seven various eminences, we were none of us the richer by a single piece of eight. Then we tried the other cabbage-wood stumps on lower ground, and any other likely-looking spots, till, after working for nearly a fortnight, we must have dug up most of the island.

And then Tom came to me with the news that our provisions were beginning to give out. As it was, he said, before we returned to Nassau, we should have to put in at Flying Fish Cove—a small settlement on the larger island some five miles to the north—for the purchase of various necessities.

"All right, Tom," I said, "I guess the game is up! Let's start out tomorrow morning. You may as well have your sucking fish back, Tom," I said, laughing in self-disgust. "I shall have no more need of it. I am through with treasure hunting."

"I'd keep it little longer, sar," answered Tom; "you never know."

I had made up my mind to start on the homeward trip early the following morning, but something happened that very evening to change my plans. I had dropped into the little settlement's one store, to buy some tobacco, the only kind that Charlie Webster declared fit to smoke.

I stayed chatting with the storekeeper—a lean, astute-looking Englishman, with the un-English name of Sweeney—who made a pretty good thing of selling his motley merchandise to the poor natives, on the good old business principle of supplying goods of the poorest possible quality at the highest possible prices.

While he was attending a little group of customers I had wandered toward the back of the store, curiously examining the thousand and one commodities which supplied the strange needs of humanity here in this lost corner of the world; and, thus occu-pled, I was diverted by a voice like sudden music, a voice oddly rich and laughing and confident for such grim and sinister surroundings. It was one, too, which I seemed to have heard before, and not so very long ago. When I turned in its direction I was immediately arrested, as one always is by any splendor of vitality; for a startling contrast indeed—to the spiritless, furtive figures that had been coming and going hitherto—was this superb young creature, tall and lithe, with proudly carried head on glorious shoulders. Her skin was a golden olive, and it had been hard to say which was the more intensely black—her hair, or the proud eyes which, turning presently in my direction, seemed to strike upon me as with an actual impact of soft fire.

My presence seemed at once to put her on her guard. The music of her voice was suddenly hushed, as though she had hurriedly, almost in terror, thrown a robe of reticence about an impulsive naturalness not to be displayed before strangers. As for the storekeeper, he was evidently a familiar acquaintance. He had known her—he said after she was gone—since she was a little girl.

While he spoke, my eyes had accidentally fallen on the coin still in his hand, with which she had just paid him.

"Why," I said, "this is a Spanish doubloon!"

"That's what it is," said the Englishman laconically.

"But doesn't it strike you as strange that she should pay her bills with Spanish doubloons?" I asked.

"It did at first," he answered; and then, as if annoyed with himself, he was attempting to retrieve an expression that carried an implication he evidently didn't wish me to retain. He added: "Of course, she doesn't always pay in Spanish doubloons. I suppose they have a few old coins in the family and use them when they run out of others."

It was as lame an explanation as well could be, and no one could doubt that, whatever his reason for so doing, he was lying.

"But haven't you trouble in disposing of them?" I inquired.

"Gold is always gold," he answered, "and we don't see enough of it here to be particular as to whose head is stamped upon it, or what date. Besides, as I said, it isn't as if I got many of them; and you can always dispose of them as curiosities."

"Will you sell me this one?" I asked.

"I see no harm in your having it," he said, "but I'd just as soon you didn't mention where you got it."

"Certainly," I answered, disguising my wonder at his secretiveness. "What is it worth?"

He named the sum of sixteen dollars and seventy-five cents. Having paid him that amount I bade him good-night, glad to be alone with my eager, glowing thoughts. These I took with me to a bit of coral bench, made doubly white by the moon, rustled over by giant palms, and whispered to by the vast living jewel of the sea. I took out my strange doubloon and flashed it in the moon.

But, brightly as it shone, it hardly seemed as bright as it would have seemed a short while back; or, perhaps, it were truer to say that in another, newer aspect it shone a hundred times more brightly. The adventure to which it called me was no longer single and simple as before, but a gloriously confused goal of cloudy splendors, the burning core of which—suddenly raising out, and then lost again in brightness—were the eyes of a mysterious girl.

A young man employed by the Redpath Bureau who was traveling with the Chautauqua here during the past week, had three of his fingers painfully burned Wednesday night while engaged in taking down the tent and fixtures on the lot at 12th and K streets. The injury was sustained when he came in contact with a live wire and the services of a local physician were necessary in dressing the wounds.—Bedford Democrat.

Roy A. Beldon returned home Wednesday evening, having received his discharge at Camp Sherman, Ohio. He arrived in this country two weeks ago, after sixteen months' services overseas. He was wounded in the Argonne drive, October 4, 1918, and will long be a sufferer from the wound received. His wife died seven weeks ago while he was in the hospital at Coblenz, Germany.

FINE TONIC FOR WOMEN

Is What This Lady Thinks About Cardui. It Made Her Well.

Springfield, Mo.—Mrs. Alice Fletcher, of this address, writes: "I cannot say too much in praise of Cardui. It has done so much for me. Shortly after my marriage, 14 years ago, I suffered terribly...with my back aching me, and my limbs pained me so bad. And also I had such awful bearing-down pains, and I became very weak and could not hardly do my work...

I went to my sister-in-law and she told me to get Cardui. So I took one bottle and it helped me so much, I got another bottle, and by the time I had taken the two bottles I was a well woman. I have never been troubled any more...I keep Cardui in my home...for I think it is a fine tonic for a woman raising a family.

I always take one or two bottles before and after my... for it strengthens me so, and has such good effects on my nervous system."

Weak women, worn out with the work and care of the home, need a tonic, strength-building medicine, like Cardui, the woman's tonic. NCB-9

If you've the slightest cause to suspect that your eyes need attention you should mark that down as the most important thing you have to do.

Now what is the first thing you must do—just get a pair of glasses from a fellow that advertises free examinations? We say No, you are better off if you don't wear any, as improperly fitted glasses always lead to more serious trouble later.

We use the most modern instruments to measure all errors of vision so that when you entrust us with the responsibility of correcting your eye defects, you need have no doubts whatever about the results.
